'DEATH KISS' BRIDE NABBED, CONFESSES

Hildegard Pelton, 32-year-old German war bride wanted in connection with the "kiss of death" killing of her husband near Niles last February was arrested Monday in New York.

The FBI said Mrs. Pelton confessed she shot and killed her husband in his automobile following an argument. She said she hitchhiked across the country, stopping over briefly in Mexico.

Agents said Mrs. Pelton would be arraigned before a U.S. commissioner and returned to California to stand trial for murder.

Pelton was found dead in his automobile near Niles February 2. A lipstick smear on his forehead covered part of the blood smears, the FBI said.

FBI agents said the war bride told them that in January she bought a gun for the purpose of killing Pelton.

She said that on February 1, they had a talk and her husband told her it would be better if they remained apart. Pelton packed her bags for her, she said. Meanwhile she slipped in the gun.

The couple then drove off in the automobile and stopped at a Niles bar. Shortly afterward, in the car, they argued.

Mrs. Pelton told the FBI she told her husband to stop the car, that she had to get out. When he stopped, she took the gun from the bag and shot him "a number of times."

THEY CAN SPELL! — Two Washington Township eighth-graders battled their way into the finals of the county-wide Spelling Bee last Friday in Hayward. They are Yuko Matsumoto (center) of Centerville, and Allan Williams (left, rear) of Decoto. With three other South County students, they spelled down two dozen of the area's sharpest students to win a place in the finals in Berkeley April 17. Other finalists are (above) Louis Curtis and AnnSakai of LaVista, and Lee Pennington (right) of Castro Valley. Center rear is D. J. Confer, Hayward Hi teacher, who conducted the bee. NEWARK INCORPORATION ON SOLO BASIS IS DISCUSSED

A group of interested Newark residents met last Wednesday to discuss the subject of incorporation. The meeting and discussion was prompted by recent newspaper articles concerning the incorporation of Washington Township.

According to William Hildebrand, moderator, the Men's Council of the local Presbyterian Church agreed it would be "difficult to remain unincorporated and unhealthy for Newark's growth to be left in the hands of the county planning commission and board of supervisors."

By joining a Township incorporation move, several present predicted Newark would:

1. Still support the other areas through greater assessment.
2. Be looked upon as only a source of revenue to the Township city and be too industrialized.
3. Pay an undue share of maintenance and building of roads and streets within the Township area.

If Newark were to be incorporated alone, the meeting learned, it would:

1. Have to petition the Board of Supervisors for an election.
2. Become a 6th class city.
3. Be limited to $1 per $100 city tax.
4. Receive a share of State taxes, ---gas, etc.
5. Still pay a basic county tax ($1.80) for sheriff's office and social welfare.
6. Lower tax rates for Newark homes and industries due to high assessed valuation.

"Emeryville operates on a 60-cent rate due to industries — Newark should be able to do it on $1," one man said. Newark has an assessed valuation equal to Livermore and Pleasanton combined, he added.

"Newark could plan the town the way Newark wants it and not the way Oakland, Hayward or the Southern Pacific wants it zoned," another man said.

Newark would have a five man city council and maintain its own fire and police departments.

Results of the discussion will be assessed later if incorporation becomes a topic of debate at other club and fraternal meetings, Hildebrand explained.

TOWNSHIP SITE IF BARTELL RETIRES?

Supervisor Harry Bartell and two Township agriculturalists exchanged shafts last week at a hearing on the proposed farm zoning amendment.

Bartell, who has been a ranchers' target for his opposition to the measure, let out that "when my time comes to retire, I want to live in Southern Alameda County."

Bruce Michael of Warm Springs replied he has some walnut land he will set apart for retired supervisors. And Bartell jokingly told Michael to "set aside an acre for me."

John Kimber, Niles poultry breeder, interposed:

"Warm Springs also has a mink farm."

But Bartell retorted sharply: "I'm not interested in mink."

LOAN BANK OK'D FOR LOCAL BRANCH

The Berkeley Savings & Loan Association has received permission to locate a branch in Washington Township — probably in Centerville.

This was learned today by The Township Register from the association's executive vice-president, E. Ronald Long.

Long said a survey of (1) home loan possibilities, and (2) branch sites will begin immediately. On the outcome of this survey, he explained, depends the time and place of the branch's arrival.

Permission to locate in the Township was obtained from the State Building and Loan Commission on March 24, Long said.

"We think Centerville will be the hub of a tremendous industrial and residential development," Long asserted. "We want to be a part of it."

The association operates like a bank except that it has no commercial checking accounts, and specializes in home loans. Its main office is in Berkeley, and it has one branch, in Walnut Creek, established three years ago.

DECOTO LINKED TO 'MUTINY ON BOUNTY'

Pupils at Barnard School, in Decoto, have struck up a fascinating correspondence with descendants of the mutineers of HMS "Bounty" who inhabit one of the Pacific's lonliest islands.

Bill Bachman, Peter O'Donnell and Lydia Frausto are the eighth graders who have received letters of reply from Pitcairn Island, South Pacific speck

The letters were read to a school assembly last week. One was from a schoolboy, Clement Christian, and one from Warren Christian, descendants of Fletcher Christian who played such a large part in the novel and film, "Mutiny on the Bounty."

The local students got the idea of starting the correspondence from a newspaper article

IRVINGTON PLAN IS UNVEILED BY COUNTY

A warning to reconsider its endorsement of rezoning south of Irvington was delivered to the local chamber of commerce Tuesday by John Jay Thomas, county planning director.

Thomas submitted a proposed plan for future growth of Irvington and its surrounding area. Then he warned that members will have to decide whether a $400,000 brick plant east of Durham Road is desirable in rural-home surroundings, or whether they want the hillside it occupies zoned for industry.

The chamber took no action, but agreed to study Thomas' maps and invite him back April 28. It already has endorsed the brick plant, though the County Planning Commission has not

Thomas also commented:

1. From a planning viewpoint, incorporation of the Township as a whole—now under study, along with other possibilities—is not desirable, since communities lose their identity.

3. State Highway District Engineer B. W. Booker now estimates completion of the Eastshort Freeway will have to be speeded up—"finished within two or three years."

Only opposition to Thomas' general zoning blueprints came from Joe Costa, dairyman, who said the Freeway will split has property, making it unsuitable for dairying, and thus that it ought not to be zoned to prevent him from selling it for subdivisions.

Thomas' map showed: (1) industry east of town along the railroads, extending to Highway 17 between Cooks Road and the eastward turn of Durham Road, (2) extension of the present business district southwest

FARM ZONING SET OVER TO APRIL 9

Nearly 60 Southern Alameda County agriculturalists, led by Bruce Michael of Warm Springs last week besought the Alameda County Board of Supervisors to add a classification to the zoning ordinance to protect farming.

The supervisors voted to hold the issue over until April 9, and agreed they might act on it then if a full board is present. At last Thursday's session, Supervisor George Janssen was absent because of illness.

Michael stressed the measure doesn't actually zone any land for agriculture, but only gives farmers the power to seek such a zone in their neighborhood.

Supervisor Harry Bartell aagin gave notice that he does not view the subject with enthusiasm. He said a restrictive cause limiting sales to a two-and-a-half-acre minimum might work a hardship on sellers and on those who want to buy only a family-sized farm.

Speaking for the new classification were L. S. Williams, Centerville grower, and John Kimber, Niles poultry breeder.

Kimber said his $500,000-a-year payroll may be jeopardized if some protection against encroachment of subdivisions isn't forthcoming. Kimber added he intends to triple his Niles operations within a few years and employ about 250 persons.

Williams argued "Oakland real estate brokers and outside promoters oughtn't to be allowed to decide the future of our land."

Bartell, an Oakland real estate broker, differed sharply and commented: "If everyone had that attitude there'd still be only a million people in California." He added: "We want to develop this country, not set ourselves apart."

Board Chairman Chester Stanley then called for the deferment.

Sole objection to the amendment came from Dick Swarting, Pleasanton, who said he feared restrictions might prevent him from disposing of 13 acres he owns there... Swarting charged "only the well-to-do ranchers" were expressing their views.

He was challenged by Melvin Nielsen of Pleasanton, who described himself as the spokesman for a group of small landholders.

HUSKY BASEBALLERS CONTINUE TORRID STREAK WITH 4-1 UPSET OVER COMETS

By BOB HIRD

Coach Irv Hird's Washington Hi nine made him the happiest man in the Township last Thursday when the local club upset the James Lick Comets, 4-1, in the league opener here.

The Comets were rated the team to capture the S.C.V.A.L. crown. They also had an 8-game win streak going.

The Huskies opened up the scoring in the first frame. Lead-off man Frank Murakami walked and stole second base. Then little left-fielder Ed Romero delivered a single to left field, driving in Murakami.

The Malemutes loaded the bags in the second but couldn't push any runs across.

Second Sacker Dick Arington opened the fourth with a double down the left field line. Shortstop Don Santos followed with another two-bagger deep in right center, driving in Arington.

An infield basehit by Pitcher Bob Lunsford pushed Santos to third, and a few pitches later he was balked in by Lick hurler Ruben Aldama.

Santos scored the Huskies fourth run in the sixth when he slid home on a fielder's choice.

The Comets' lone run came in the seventh when Lunsford tired and yielded two singles along with a base on balls.

Lunsford threw the whole seven innings and had the Comets eating out of his hand most of the way. He gave up only five hits, struck out six and issued two bases on balls.

Romero and Lunsford led the Huskies at the plate. Each picked up two singles in three trips.

The Malemutes played sharp ball defensively, committing only one miscue.

Other games in the S.C.V.A.L. found Los Gatos dumping Live Oak 5-0. 'Gatos chucker Jim Johnson threw a no hit, no run game. Campbell defeated Fremont 4-1, and Santa Clara lost to Mountain View, 4-1.

SPORTS SPOTLITE

This week's featured athletes are Frank Murakami and Don Leach.

Murakami is in his last year at Washington and has been active in baseball, basketball and football for four years. Baseball is Frank's first love and he is putting in his second year of varsity experience this season. Frank has held down the third-base spot for the past two seasons and is noted as a fine gloveman.

He put in three years of B football and this season played on the varsity eleven. At right half, he was always a dangerous breakaway threat. Toward the end of the season he was troubled with a bad ankle.

Frank played two years of B basketball, both years being used as a reserve. The 5-foot 6-inch senior is taking a college prep course and is thinking of being a draftsman.

Leach, also a senior, transferred to Washington last year from Nebraska. The 5-foot 5-inch blond has taken part in basketball, football and track.

Last year he put in a season's service on Coach Don Wolfe's C quintet, and was a team sparkplug.

This season was the first the stocky Leach attempted football and he proved to be one of Coach Irv Hird's most valuable halfbacks. Although small, Leach packs guts, with his speed. He also kicked the points after touchdown.

Last year in B track he ran the 100, threw the shot and discus.

Don is taking a college course and plans to study engineering.

YOSEMITE JUNKET REWARDS HUSKIES

Twenty-one Washington Hi baseball players, chaperoned by Vice-Principal and Coach Irv Hird, trekked to Yosemite Valley last week-end by school bus as a reward for their team effort so far this season.

En route, the win-happy Huskies lingered in Modesto long enough to drop a 5-3 decision to the Modesto Junior College nine.

The team stayed in cabins at Yosemite Lodge, but members reported they had to drive to Badger Pass to get into the snow. All returned late Sunday, eyes fixed on next Monday's tilt with Bellarmine here.

BRISTOWS, SCHOOL WIN $102,000 SUIT

E. Dixon Bristow, Niles school superintendent, and his teacher-daughter, Mary Virginia, last week won a $102,000 damage suit brought against them by a Hayward widow.

Mrs. Fay Von Seidletz, the widow, was denied $102,000 sought for the accidental death of her husband, Morris, 53, in Niles more than two years ago.

The verdict, handed up by a jury in the Alameda County superior court of Judge Ralph Hoyt Friday, favored the defendants, Miss Bristow, Niles grammar school music teacher, her father, principal of the school, and the Niles school district.

Von Seidletz, a Niles steel worker, was injured fatally in a collision with Miss Bristow's car on May 1, 1951, at E and First Streets in Niles. Miss Bristow was on school business, driving her father's car, when the crash occurred.

Services are pending at Chapel of the Palms, Centerville, for Antonio Mesa Valdivia, 39, native of Mexico, who died suddenly yesterday of a heart ailment at the Ancenelli Ranch, Centerville, where he was employed as a ranch hand. He arrived here twenty days ago from Mexico

SUSPECT HELD

Roy L. Adams, 26, charged with theft of $2000 worth of pipe from the California Pottery Company, Niles, last November, was arrested in Oakland last week. Adams will appear for preliminary hearing Tuesday before Judge E. A. Quaresma.

MISS ALICE HALE WEDS ROBERT COLEMAN IN RITUALS AT SAN LEANDRO CHURCH

Wedding bells and flowers decorated the archway under which the former Alice Hale of Niles and Robert Coleman of San Leandro were married Saturday at the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in San Leandro. Elder George Anderson, step-father of the bride, officiated at the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Hillard Hale, wore a white coat-style dress over lace with a small hat of flowers and a fingertip veil. She carried a white testament and a white orchid with streamers.

Matron-of-honor was Mrs. Helen Coleman, sister-in-law of the groom, who wore a dress of navy blue fashioned with a full skirt and trimmed with lace. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of light pink carnations.

Miss Georgia Anderson, step-sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and wore a rose colored dress with a gathered skirt and plain bodice. She too carried an old-fashioned bouquet of carnations to match her costume.

Mrs. George Anderson chose a navy blue dress with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Her flowers were pink carnations. Mrs. Coleman wore a black and white dress with white accessories and white carnations.

John Zorman was best man for his brother-in-law and George Coleman, the groom's brother, was usher.

Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding reception was held in the church hall for some 150 guests. Carnations, stock and daisies decorated the hall where a beautifully tiered cake was the center of attraction.

The couple are expected back this week from their honeymoon to Southern California and will be at home on Wayne Avenue in San Leandro. The new Mrs. Coleman will return to her position as a telephone operator in Oakland. Her husband is employed in the maintenance department of the Pullman Company.

She carried an orchid and a white prayer book with a streamer of baby orchids. Her finger tip veil with a small crown was trimmed with seed pearls in the form of flowers.

Betty Jean Gonsalves of Decoto was bridesmaid and wore a ballerina-length dress of pale orchid nylon net over taffeta. Her flowers were white carnations centered with an orchid. Her Juliet cap matched her gown.

ASK STOP LIGHTS AGAIN AT CANYON

Stop signals at the entrance to Niles Canyon, and a suggestion to attract business to the town were discussed Tuesday by the Niles Chamber of Commerce.

John Brahmst asked for a renewal of past requests for the State Division of Highways to install stop-and-go lights at the Canyon Road intersection with Highway 17.

Secretary Vernon Ellsworth reported the request was last submitted to the State in mid-1952. The intersection, scene of several fatal accidents, got flashing warning lights two years ago. But Brahmst said traffic has increased to the point where signals are needed. Ellsworth said he will direct another letter to the Highway department.

Dr. T. C. Wilson suggested a business-getter for Niles would be advertising and slogans stressing that the town "has no parking meters and no traffic cops."

President C. W. Chrysler said he will investigate the possibility of improving highway signs

ASK BIGGER PIPES ON ALDER AVENUE

Larger water mains on Alder Avenue were asked Monday by the Centerville Chamber of Commerce.

Secretary LeRoy Broun was directed to ask the Alameda County Water District to enlarge its present 1½-inch mains which serve more than 20 homes on the street north of town.

The chamber also agreed to let a committee headed by L. S. Williams bring recommendations of alterations—if any—to the "master plan" zoning map of this area. The map was delivered to a chamber representative, Judge Allen G. Norris, last week by the County Planning Commission.

JAPANESE NIGHT SCHOOL GRADUATES

Thirty-six Japanese American residents of Washington Township today held completion certificates awarded in Washington Union High School's first class conducted in the Japanese language.

The citizenship course was taught by D. Brooke McKinnon, teacher of the Japanese language at the University of California. The class was sponsored by the Japanese American Citizens League, Southern Alameda County Chapter, under the adult education program at the high school.

Guests at last week's dinner which marked the close of the course included J. V. Goold, district superintendent; Mrs. Emma Doane of the faculty, Mr. and Mrs. McKinnon, and Haruo Ishimaru and Giishi Yoshioka, representing the JACL. An appreciation gift was presented to the instructor by Masaye Takamura, representative of the class.

QUEEN BEE

For one who spells simple words with the bogus assurance of Bob Hope in a harem, we accepted as only our due the invitation to judge a spelling bee last week.

Two dozen youngsters from the south end of the county were entered in the contest, held in Hayward's Cherryland School. To the Township's credit, two of the five finalists who will compete in the county finals are from this area.

To our relief, we found that judges were handed a list of the jawbreakers, properly spelled. The eighth-graders onstage had to go it with only their background to help.

Folks who say today's youth lacks spine and spunk ought to watch one of these bees. The kids went after "efficiency," "necessarily," and "originally" (we're peeking at the list) like Rizzuto after a hot grounder.

Competition is the spice of life, the spur that brings out thoroughbred traits folks need so much today. Spelling and arithmetic often are neglected for vaguer topics in today's curriculum, or at least that's how it seems when businessmen come to deal with recent graduates.

Let's have more spelldowns. Mental-arithmetic bees too. To our youth, they set an example of preparation, poise and meticulousness that is worth a thousand sermons.

GREETINGS OF THE SEASON

Here it is spring, and here comes another Communist peace feeler, appropriately timed to fall around April Fool's Day. A public weary of Red diplomacy wants to know—not whether there's a brickbat under the derby—but what the brick is made of.

A study of the international police blotter might help. Every time Russia thinks she can divert the attention of the Americans with one of those tricks, she'll do it. In a way, it's like the scientist who shows the white rat a tidbit, then snatches it away. Pretty soon the rat goes nuts. Russia hopes "creampuff America" will, too.

The Kremlin thinks it's time to push out the tidbit again, take our mind off our defenses for awhile. Some bubble-heads always fall for it, and that helps Red propaganda. With the sour lessons of the past firmly in mind, our country ought to force Russia and her stooges to prove their intentions every step of the way.

SUZY SEZ...

After watching the drivers of those big semi-truck and trailers wheel their vehicles around the monument in the middle of the intersection at Irvington, I wondered why it was there, since it seems to be an obstruction. However, I discovered that it was erected in 1917 in order to make driving more safe. By having to cut around the structure, drivers don't approach the corner blindly, nor too far toward the center line, where perhaps they might meet another auto doing the same thing. Glad I asked!

Those new stores that are planned in Newark will be very welcome. With more shopping facilities centrally located, it'll be possible to shop and pick up mail without driving from parking place to parking place.

* * * *

Passing through Mission San Jose gives me the impression that this historic town is dozing, waiting for the return of the old, calmer way of life. It does bustle a little when tourists arrive in the summer; still there is that "faded-but-proud" look not found anyplace else in the Township.

Is it rushing the season, or just left over from last year? I mean the "Christmas Trees for Sale" sign near Decoto.

* * * *

Doesn't the Irvington Elementary School look handsome with its new green paint? Makes education a pleasure.

* * * *

And speaking of schools, will the Warm Springs Grammar School trim the greenery that makes the lettering read "Arm Springs"?

* * * *

The recent air crash brought a traffic jam that blocked life-saving fire trucks and ambulances. The jam was caused by sight seers who were hoping to see something to satisfy their morbid cravings. This calls for drastic action by our local law enforcement officers. The same people stop at accidents to get in on the gory details. Maybe they'll be shocked to hear themselves spoken of like this, but it's true!

* * * *

The Shrine Circus is coming to the Bay Area soon, and for the first time, our youngest will see it. Our favorite teen-ager may act very sophisticated, but when the time to buy tickets arrived, guess who insisted that the best seats be purchased for the whole family? And spoke so glowingly of last year's performance? Of course, I will not divulge this information to her grown-up high school friends.

* * * *

I wish I had the periscope concession in Niles. Backing out of a parking space on First Street almost requires a special sense, to be able to locate the oncoming but invisible cars.

* * * *

It is a great temptation to me, when I see all the wonderful new 1953 autos being displayed by Township dealers. It makes driving the old heap just that much harder.

Essanay Made Him

(Fifth in an exclusive series on Essanay Film studios in Niles between 1912 and 1916.)

By STUART NIXON

The free-spending, free-shooting rowdies of the Essanay Film Manufacturing Company left Niles with nothing much more than memories and hoofprints in the cement on First Street.

But they gave one Niles youngster a lift out of small-town life, and put his foot firmly on the stairway to his career.

This lad was Danny Kelleher, a red-headed freckle-faced orphan who was driving pie wagons and taking tickets in the Connors Block nickleodeon when Essanay hit town in 1912.

Niles was fun for a boy in those days. Swimming in the gravel pits, picking cherries—12 hours for 75 cents—it was a good life.

Danny would have been completely happy except that when he was four, his mother and dad died and his beloved sister Rita was taken to live with relatives in Los Angeles. Danny stayed on with his grandfather, Mike Palmer, who lived on Second Street opposite Corpus Christi Church.

Danny sank his boyish sorrows in pies and ticket-taking. Then came Essanay.

With the other town kids, Danny hung around while Broncho Billy Anderson, the Hop-along Cassidy of 1912, supervised unloading of the big baggage-car on the Southern Pacific siding. Danny goggled at the construction of a stage behind Frank Mortimer's barn on Second Street.

He nearly fainted when Kite Robinson, the head property man, asked him if he wanted a job. Danny never even asked what it paid. It was $8 a week, and for that he fetched, carried, swept the stage and put the horses to bed.

In his informal, whimsical fashion, Anderson grabbed him one day to play a part he had just written into one of his westerns, "Little Red," as Danny was called, played Broncho Billy as a boy, running away from home to go Out West.

The jump from janitor to star wasn't unusual. Anderson's epics were hastily tossed together, and a carpenter one day might find himself a movie villain the next.

The townsfolk got into the act too. Danny remembers one day when Frank "Fat" Rose was pressed into service because he had just bought a new Thor motorcycle. On the spur of the moment Anderson contrived a comedy for one of his actors, called it "Alkali Ike and His Motorbike," and had Danny "double" for Gus Carney, the star, and Rose for Margaret Todd, a 250-pound comedienne.

Anderson invented the double. He didn't care to risk his neck in the hard-riding scenes that made his films popular, so he hired professional cowboys to substitute for him.

In the morning, the whole troop would ride horseback or jounce atop stagecoaches up Niles Canyon to a flat space near John Harding's White House Saloon. There they would film the Western dramas or comedies that were Essanay's trademark.

When the big studio was finished at First and G, Danny went indoors with the rest. And when Charlie Chaplin came to Niles in 1915, Danny was promoted to head property man for the Chaplin unit. He nearly burst with pride, for Chaplin was the top-paid actor at Essanay—a national figure of increasing proportions.

Anderson and George K. Spoor, owners of Essanay, had built a second studio in Los Angeles. After five pictures at Niles, Chaplin was ready to leave the strictly Western set-up for a city atmosphere which was more suited to his brand of comedy.

One morning in April, while Chaplin was finishing his immortal tale of pathos, "The Tramp," in Niles Canyon, he turned to Danny and asked:

"How'd you like to go to Los Angeles with me tomorrow?"

Danny jumped. Not only was it a chance to ride the crest with Chaplin, but he could see his sister! "Wonderful," was all he could squeeze out.

"We'll leave in the morning," said Charlie.

"I was ready then," Danny says today. "I didn't have anything to pack, and he didn't either. We put it all in Chaplin's trunk, and the next morning we caught the 9 o'clock train to San Francisco and boarded the 'Harvard."

Some who went with the Chaplin unit to Los Angeles included Edna Purviance, Snub Pollard, Bud Jamieson, all actors; Director Lloyd Bacon and Lloyd Easterday—another Niles boy who was business manager for the unit.

Chaplin made a few films for Essanay in Los Angeles. Then he went over to Mutual for $10,000 a week, and took Danny with him In 1917, Dannny joined the Navy

"I got a real send-off," he recalls. "Charlie gave me a $300 check, a gold 19-jewel watch, and a gold fountain pen. It made the headlines in all the papers. Yes, I still have the watch and it's as good as the day I got it."

Danny learned electricity in the Navy, became an electrician in Hollywood. Then he shifted to sound when the talkies came in. He has been with RKO for 27 years, one of the top men in the business. But he has always kept his contacts here.

He says in a letter:

"I'm a Niles boy at heart, and always will be."

One wonders what Danny would have been if Essanay had never come to Niles.

(Next week: The End of Essanay.)

MYSTERY MAN IS A MUSIC LOVER

Walt Roethlin was, of course, our much-traveled subject last week. This issue's Mystery Man hasn't seen as much of the world but just as many folks know him. See if you can guess without having to find the answer elsewhere in our columns.

His family is widely known in the Township. His dad in fact was a Mystery Man subject not long ago. This is the first time we've had a father-and-son combination.

Born here, he attended Washington Hi, took time out in his junior year, and didn't graduate until 1932, when he was 21. He was president of his Future Farmer Chapter, and once played Bing Crosby in a student production of "The Big Broadcast."

Music has always been a second love of his. He tried to learn the piano, finally compromised on the trombone. Well, as he says, Washington Township is one place where there's room to play the trombone.

In his spare time, he composes music and lyrics for popular-type ballads. None published, to date. Sign painting he has found a more profitable hobby.

He worked for a San Francisco movie chain for a time after he graduated. Then in 1937 he went to work for an uncle in Oakland, selling radios. The same year he met a pretty stenographer. They found they had a common birthday—January 3. With this to start on, it was no time at all before they were married. They have one son.

Marriage meant a steadier job. Our Mystery Man found one of the steadiest there is, right here in his native Township. He's been at it ever since.

This Mystery Man's family came here in 1849, settled on a ranch, and gave their name to much of the surrounding country. He has a deep appreciation for the local scenery, although on one occasion he almost became a permanent part of it.

That was when he was 17. Racing in a cut-down jaloppy he built down Overacker Lane, the steering wheel came off in his hands at 80 miles per hour! Using brakes, our Mystery Man just avoided landing in a ditch instead of in this column.

Guess Who.

Editor:

We congratulate the men and women of Adobe Acres in their fight for zoning before the Alameda County Planning Commission. They have proven their point beyond a doubt, that the future growth of Niles depends upon this type of zoning. Also the large group of civic minded people from miles around Niles, who rallied to their defense, the Southern Pacific Railroad, the Pacific States Steel, Kraftile, and Rhodes & Jamieson, who have attended the meetings and given a great deal of their time, have found that a friendly solution can be reached over a round table

The Planning Commissioner and engineers have shown us that there is still a democracy at work. Surely theirs, and the supervisors is not an easy job. Niles can now have the hope of growth, a larger business district, more and better stores. At least these people have shown us that an effort is being made for a recreational area, which our children can enjoy, if not ourselves.
